

Scrutiny 2023/24- Executive officers final report

This report details our executive officer team this year (2023/24) and their progressions, as well as what they have passed onto the next officer team. Before I talk about our executive officers many achievements this year, I would like to thank them all for their dedication to improving our experience as students at the University of Leicester. Without these officers' dedication to their roles, we would not have seen progressions like the introduction of monthly gym memberships making fitness more accessible to all, the implementation of fees and income onto university campus, and the highest recorded turn out for SU elections (in terms of both voters and candidates) to name a few. Many of the initiatives inspired by officers' own experiences demonstrate how they are using their own voice for the benefit of others.

Joe Hyett (Sports officer 2023/24)

Joe has made impressive progress during his time as Sports Officer 2023/24. His initiatives hit the nail on the head within and outside of his remit showing how dedicated he is to his position. Joe made an immediately strong start to the role by implementing a physiotherapy treatment centre for students and staff.

Joe's undeniable passion for the role is reflected in the stellar effort he has put into projects like getting affordable KUKRI sport kits for Team Leicester and the 'Jack and Joe Give it a Go series'. As referenced in my previous report, Joe has gone above and beyond to meet the points of his manifesto and deliver outside of his remit with the 'O2 bans end exclusion policy' which is set to launch in September 2024 with a card scanning scheme to ensure the safety of students at the O2. Joe facilitated a great Parasport awareness campaign with the involvement of alumni as well as the 'Sports Person of the Month' to celebrate the achievements of Team Leicester. A notable achievement is the implementation of a monthly university gym membership which not only offers flexibility but increases accessibility for those getting involved with fitness at the university.

Joes' influence on sport this year has been outstanding: he has invariably prioritised providing for his cohort and his interaction with students should be used as an example of outstanding representation, notably his use of social media to engage students. Joe's performance has been exemplary.

It should be noted that Archie, Jack, and Joe delivered a fantastic Movember campaign together and raised over £10,400. Their dedication and enthusiasm is admirable and should be used as an incredible example for any individual wishing to do good for their community.

This year's officers have exceeded expectations to provide for the students they represent, and I hope their work continues to inspire and motivate the people around them as they have this year. All of the Executive Officers have contributed largely to the advancement of our Students' Union: their incredibly hard work must not go unnoticed. Each officer has individually created an environment where students can flourish and receive the help they need from our SU within the university.
